Cupid Brings Love Story Movie to Toronto!

He Wants You to Fall In Love with Toronto again this Valentine's Day by seeing *I Hate Toronto: A Love Story

Toronto, Canada—February 6, 2012 – Cupid and Grand Slam Pictures announced today that their movie I Hate Toronto: A Love Story will have a 5-day theatrical run at the Underground Cinema at 186 Spadina Avenue in Toronto from February 10th to 14th. Shows will be at 4:30, 7:00 and 9:30 each day, with a Q&A to follow with the filmmakers after each 7:00pm show. Cupid says, “this is the ultimate Toronto movie – set all over Toronto and made by Torontonians – so I’m spending all week in the streets of Toronto letting Torontonians know about our movie.”

Cupid and the writer/producer/director of the movie, Daniel Wilson, will be in the streets at the following locations available for street interviews today and for the next three days.
Monday, Feb 6 – 530pm – North-East Corner of Bloor Street and Yonge Street
Tuesday, Feb 7 – 530pm – South-East Corner of Dundas Square
Wednesday, Feb 8 – 530pm – South-East Corner of Queen and John
Thursday, Feb 9 – 230pm – South-East Corner of Bloor and Spadina

Just look for our massive I Hate Toronto poster which is 8 feet high. You can't miss it. On camera interviews outside of these times can also be arranged. Just call Cupid.

The movie stars Al Miro and Toronto-based actor Amy Clare Lockwood. It is set in and around the city, with key events taking place on the Don Valley Parkway, Riverdale Park and a book store on Queen Street.
